The go-to guide for NE1 goings-on

NE1 magazine is brought to you by NE1 Ltd, the company which champions all that’s great about Newcastle city centre
Turning Japanese
When: June 16 to 18
Japanese anime festival SunnyCon is back in Newcastle for a second year, after attracting 3,000 visitors to the inaugural St James’ Park event. Movie, sci-fi, anime and gaming fans are set to descend on the stadium dressed as their favourite characters to enjoy demos, talks, cosplay, screenings and gaming, as well as meeting VIP guests, including Pokemon’s Team Rocket.
St James’ Park, from £20 Sunnyconanimeexpo.com

Trolley dolly
When: June 17
Queen of the skies Pam Ann is landing her Louboutins at the Tyne Theatre with her celebratory 20th anniversary UK tour. The alter ego of Australian comedian–writer–producer Caroline Reid, Pam has gained cult status as a brash hot mess of a hostess with an ego as big as the airports she lands in and a mouth which keeps getting raunchier. Climb aboard!
Tyne Theatre and Opera House, from £21 tynetheatreandoperahouse.uk

DFDS Seaways is on board as the main sponsor of the biggest-ever NE1 Newcastle Motor Show, which takes over 2 square miles of the city centre in July and is set to attract more than 100,000 people to see thousands of vintage, sports and supercars.

Shiplshape
When: July 8–9
DFDS Seaways is on board as the main sponsor of the biggest-ever NE1 Newcastle Motor Show, which takes over 2 square miles of the city centre in July and is set to attract more than 100,000 people to see thousands of vintage, sports and supercars.

Spirit of adventure
When: June 21 to 24
A 1920s speakeasy-style bar which brings to life the glorious age of Victorian explorers is now open and serving up cocktails, cask ales, sharing plates and tipples from teapots. Colonel Porter’s Tavern, Botanical Garden and Rhum Bar, named for the creator of Newcastle Brown Ale, Colonel J Porter, will also serve up regular comedy nights and masquerade balls.
Milburn House, Dean Street, colonelporters.co.uk

Best bar nun
When: June 19 to 24
Sing Hallelujah for the all-new production of Sister Act starring X Factor winner and Bodyguard stage star Alexandra Burke. Directed and choreographed by Strictly Come Dancing’s Mr Nasty Craig Revel Horwood, this is a sparkling tribute to the universal power of friendship, sisterhood and music.
Theatre Royal, from £19.50, theatreroyal.co.uk

Electro pioneers Kraftwerk are back in the UK with their critically acclaimed live show, which brings together music and performance art, demonstrating the contribution of both man and machine. Kraftwerk’s 3-D concerts are a true Gesamtkunstwerk - or total work of art.

Sage Gateshead, from £48.38, sagegateshead.com

Knock out!
When: June 15
Fresh from his stunning victory over Wladimir Klitschko, the IBF, WBA and IBO World Heavyweight Champion Anthony Joshua is in Newcastle for his victory tour. Joshua will be talking about his meteoric rise in boxing, his greatest knock-outs and his thrilling win over one of the most successful heavyweights of all time.

Tyne Theatre and Opera House, from £37.50 tynetheatreandoperahouse.uk

Tango and cast
When: June 16 & 17
Choreographed by Sidi Larbi Cherkaoui, the man responsible for Beyoncé’s recent Grammy performance, Milonga is Spanish for Tango Dance Party. Deeply rooted in Argentinean culture, tango has long fascinated and captivated the world with its sexuality, power and beauty. Cherkaoui’s version, with a cast of 17 talented dancers, is a seductive and fascinating exploration of tango for the 21st Century.

Theatre Royal, from £16, theatreroyal.co.uk

Life in NE1: The newbie’s view
As a Belgian student living in Newcastle, I only wish that in future I could relive the unforgettable time I’m having here. Currently, I’m doing my internship at NE1, a company whose role is to improve the commercial areas of the city centre. Believe me, there is nothing as impressive as walking down the street knowing that so much of the public realm improvements are thanks to the team at NE1. I have been working on projects including the NE1 Newcastle Motor Show, Freedom City, the renewal of Northumberland Street and many more. Beyond that, I have met many amazing people, including Thomas Peutz of Tyneside Cinema, Sammy Ameobi of Newcastle United, members of the Arab-British Chamber of Commerce, the actress Kim Tserkezie and many more. Several have become friends, others remain professional contacts. As I write these words, I arrive at the last chapter of my story with the city and will be so sad to leave it. Ladies and gentlemen, the UK does not stop in London, Manchester and Edinburgh, until you have yet discovered… Newcastle!

Movie magic
When: July 1 - September
You know summer’s arrived when NE1’s Screen on the Green lands at Old Eldon Square, and this year it’s here earlier than ever to screen free films all summer long, plus big sporting events, car-related movies during NE1 Newcastle Motor Show July 8 - 9, and free performances from the Royal Opera House. Launching on July 1, this is your chance to catch up on all the Oscar winners and bask in the sun at the same time... getintowntowncastle.co.uk

Stooshe for Pride
When: July 21 - 23
The latest acts in the line-up for Newcastle Pride 2017 have been revealed as 90s/00s popster Kelly Llorenna, and girl band Stooshe (pictured). The three-day festival sponsored by NE1 will bring a carnival atmosphere to town July 21 - 23 and will also feature performances at the Town Moor from boyband A1 and X Factor star Sam Bailey. northern-pride.com

Funk & food
When: June 17
Great Northern Soul Food and Boiler Shop are all set to introduce their new all-day party combining live music, soul and funk DJs, and streetfood at Stephenson Quarter. Local funk warriors Smoove & Turrell are headlining the event, which also features World Headquarters’ Tom Caulker, and street food vendors will include the brilliant Grind burger bar. Boiler Shop, from £4 facebook.com/greatnorthernsoulfood

Gin gin
When: June 16 to 26
Now this is the kind of Pick Your Own we like... Gin palace Bealim House is putting on a summer gin festival where you get to pick your own gin, your glass, your tonic and garnish to make your very own perfect G&T. The festival is free entry, there are more than 30 different gins to try, and you can take part in gin still tours and masterclasses. Sounds like just the tonic... Bealim House bealimhouse.co.uk

A different kind of funny
When: June 13
If you’re a fan of Reeves and Mortimer-style effervescence, Sean Turner is for you. His show Comedy With A Colour Blind Dyslexic Geordie (Who Also Has Other Ailments) tells of the day his mother put a Catherine Cookson novel under his nose and and he didn’t have a clue how to read it, and the time she gave him a colourful picture book, but he could only see blobs where the pictures were meant to be. Brilliantly oddball. The Stand, £7, thestand.co.uk

Fairground attraction  When: June 16 to 24

Europe’s largest travelling fair is heading back to Newcastle...

One of the most eagerly anticipated events in the North East, The Hoppings attracts tens of thousands of visitors every year.

This time, it is arriving on the Town Moor for an eight-day run of adrenalin-fuelled thrill rides, waltzers, hook-a-duck, candy floss and fortune telling.

With a history stretching back 135 years, organisers are promising this year will be better than ever, with the return of dare devil rides such as AIR, Extreme and Wild Mouse.

As every North Eastener knows, the Hoppings always opens on the Friday night with half price rides and occasionally the odd drop of rain, but that can’t dampen our love affair with the region’s favourite fairground. Plus, if you haven’t had your fill of the fair, then the Discovery Museum’s exhibition All The Fun Of The Fair: 135 Years of The Hoppings is continuing until October 31, charting the history of the event, which was first held on the Town Moor in 1882. The magic number... How Magic Weekend puts Newcastle in the premier league of international sporting venues

Sit back and relax folks, we can celebrate a multi-million pound payday and a hat-trick of record crowds who flocked to the city to enjoy the rugby league carnival that is Dacia Magic Weekend, co-sponsored by NE1.

The city has hosted Magic Weekend - six matches between 12 Super League teams over one amazing weekend - for the past three years at St James’ Park, bringing in a whopping £4m to the city’s economy each time.

The annual Super League two-day showpiece attracts fans and families with its carnival atmosphere, fancy dress and face paint, live music and street food, and brings in a big economic boost to Newcastle’s bars, restaurants and shops.

Newcastle is now the most popular destination in Magic Weekend history, putting the city on the international sporting map.

Saints and singers  When: June 8
A love of acid house, techno, the Beach Boys and classic English pop has made dance-pop band Saint Etienne charmingly unique. Growing up in the Home Counties, they have written 16 new songs about day in the life of the donut of shires that ring the capital, all punctuated with bursts of BBC radio and train journeys. Sage Gateshead, £25.60, sagegateshead.com

Alive and gigging  When: June 20
Controversial Californian punk rockers Dead Kennedys are best known for their highly politicised, often angry output and their battles over censorship. They’re on the road for a six-date tour of the UK, albeit without former frontman Jello Biafra after a falling out and a rather messy court case about royalties back in 1987. O2, £22.50, academymusicgroup.com

Country girl  When: June 7
Our new girl crush, Nikki Lane’s third album Highway Queen has seen the Nashville singer emerge as one of country and rock’s most gifted singer songwriters. Blending potent lyrics, unbridled blues guitars and vintage Sixties country-pop swagger, she resonates as easily with Lana Del Rey and Jenny Lewis fans as those of Neil Young and Tom Petty. There aren’t many singers, who could get away with the lyrics Yippee Ki Yay, but she does! Sage Gateshead, £13.10, sagegateshead.com

AMP FIDDLER  When: June 9
Funk and soul legend Amp Fiddler is coming to Hoochie Coochie for an exciting live performance of his funk, disco and soul blends. He’s worked with the likes of Prince, Jamiroquai and J Dilla and is in Newcastle for one night only. Not to be missed! from £8 hoochiecoochie.co.uk

SCHOOLS OUT!  When: June 10
Exhale is back at World Headquarters for the End of Term Blowout on what is likely to be many students’ last weekend in town. Enjoy 30 years of classic house, trance, garage and Ibiza anthems. Tickets sold out, but check for returns! welovewhq.com

THE MAGIC NUMBER  When: June 9
Hidden_003 presents Luuk Van Dijk and Makanan at the Cosmic Ballroom. Kick-starting the summer schedule, expect underground with added production. facebook.com/cosmicballroom
Beer Day
Britain on June 15 is being extended into a long weekend ending on Father’s Day, June 18, which is all the excuse we need for a beer garden crawl...

Pitcher & Piano
Sit outside on the Quayside or upstairs on the roof terrace and soak up some of the city’s best views, including the Tyne’s bridges and Sage Gateshead. Enjoy the view with a pint, or our cocktail du jour, The Sipsmith, a summery mix of Sipsmith gin, mint, lime juice and sugar syrup. Hic!
pitcherandpiano.com

Livello
Wind down your summer evenings against an elegant courtyard cabana backdrop. The expansive outdoor heated terrace complete with retractable roof is perfect for parties, barbecues are available on request and cocktails come garnished with everything from fruit to fireworks.
br livello.co.uk

The Botanist
Escape the busy streets by heading up to The Botanist’s own backyard; the roof terrace overlooking Grey’s Monument. Complete with garden sheds and picnic benches, as well as a full-service bar, soak up an iconic Newcastle view with a Budvar or a Bloody Mary.
thebotanistuk.com

Barluga
There’s nothing quite like al fresco drinking and dining on busy Grey Street, where you won’t go far wrong with a Pimms or a Peroni with a seafood sharing plate from the a gastro pub-style summer menu.
barluga.co.uk

Alvino’s
Cocktail and craft beer bar Alvino’s has a secret urban terrace, foosball, pinball and live DJs on weekends. During the day, there’s a continental café vibe with coffee to drink-in or take out. alvinosbar.co.uk

Toyko
Serving original cocktails and craft beers, Toyko has a unique indoor/outdoor rooftop terrace with deep house, nu-disco DJs every Wednesday-Saturday. Try the Rocky Rose, with vodka and rose syrup.
tokyonewcastle.co.uk

The Quayside
With two terraces to choose from, enjoy taking in views of the Swing Bridge while sipping craft beers and ciders accompanied by pub classic food.

Khan Do Attitude

She was incredible when she played Hoochie Coochie a couple of years ago, and now the legend that is Chaka Khan is back in town at the O2. Here, the fiestiest woman in funk and soul treats us to a piece of her mind...

On her dream dinner date: “The actor Idris Elba. You glean certain things from people on screen. Actors have to be great liars to do their job. But I can glean from Idris that he is a very good human being and a lovely looking man.”

On discovering Whitney Houston: “Her mum Cissy told me her daughter had a great voice so I asked her to come and sing backing vocals on my first solo album. I saw my younger self in her.”

On being addicted to alcohol, prescription drugs and heroin (and her modest outlook): “My struggles with addiction have made me the amazing human being I am now. I have no regrets. I’m genuinely surprised I’m still here, though.”

On his I Feel For You: “I’m very bored of that song. I guess I’ll be singing it for the rest of my life, but I’ve had enough.”

On having kids: “I could be wrong, but I think they’re still a little angry because I wasn’t around when they were young. I think women shouldn’t have kids until they’re 40 because I don’t think we’re ready until then.”

On people rapping her name when they meet her: “If you see me in real life DO NOT rap my name to me! Just say hello like a regular person.”

On Kanye West sampling her record, Through the Fire: “That rather ped me off a little bit. I didn’t like sounding like Mickey Mouse on there.”

On President Trump: “I just keep it pure, simple. I’m not up there onstage to make a political statement. I’m up there to soothe and heal.”

On reality TV stars: “Today, everybody, their mother, and their grandmother is an entertainer for having absolutely no talent.”

On what fans can expect from a Chaka Khan show: “I’m going to come onto the stage and I’m going to sing my ass off.”

Chaka Khan is playing one of only three UK gigs this year at the O2 on June 12. Tickets from £39.90 academymusicgroup.com. Altogether now... Chaka Khan, Chaka Khan, Chaka Khan, Chaka Khan...
